INTRODUCTION

Flap Coin is one of the fastest growing coins in the crypto world. It is a truly community-driven, decentralized crypto-coin aiming for digital transactions, investment, payments, buying and selling of virtual assets online on gaming platforms around the world and so on. It is considered to be the most secure and safest digital coin in the crypto arena as it is developed using blockchain technology.

It is widely used by organizations, companies and investors, individuals around the world due to its comprehensive community-driven decentralized system. The term "decentralized" associated with this coin means it will not be owned, regulated or controlled by any organization, group, entity or individual but by the owner itself. Hence, the owner can persist with the coin without any fear of privacy and security breach.

Ownership

The real ownership of any crypto currency or coin is not determined by who launched or introduced the coin, instead the crown of ownership goes to those individuals or people who owned or held the maximum amount of supply. The reason is very simple – the individual who has the most supply of the coin owns the assets of all the investors in the liquidity pools. Flap coin owners have the luxury to sell their supply anytime if they want to do so.

How do ownership and price move?

Since the entire system of flap Coin is based on a decentralized community-driven approach and secured ownership, it has no ownership except the individuals or investors who own the coins. Due to the decentralized blockchain technology system of flap coin digital currency, the entire supply and demand largely rely on the hands of the community.

Whenever any investor or buyer buys the coin, his assets his accumulated in the liquidity pools and in return, the investor gets the equivalent number of coins. With the volatility of demand and supply chain, the value of the coin also increases or decreases respectively. Similarly, when the seller sells the coin, it goes back to the liquidity pool and in return, the seller gets back his asset from the liquidity market or pool. The prominent conclusion that is derived from the concept is that any individual or group who owns the maximum number of coins in supply is considered the bulk owner of the coin in the liquidity pool, and he can control the price of this digital currency.

Problems and smart solutions

DEPLETING RISK

As a matter of fact, there are numerous risks and rewards involved in cryptocurrencies these days. However, as a developer and introducer of this coin, we understand and identify all these problems in a professional manner so that the risk involved can be nullified and the reward aspect of this coin can eventually emerge as a perfect winner for owners and coin holders. We have massive experience, meticulous skills and impeccable technology in place to overcome them.

ROBUST CONTRACT

There are several viable functions and features that enable and enforce investors and owners to get hold of Flap Coin in the list of their valuable assets. Multiple steps have been taken to ensure the coin remains 100% safe from human errors and fraud. It has been renounced and deployed to Binance Smart Chain so that its functions and features cannot be manipulated and changed in the future.

OWNERSHIP BASED FINANCIAL SYSTEM

The evolution of cryptocurrencies has brought forth a dynamic and unorthodox financial system. It reveals absolute ownership by the individual or owner of the coin. The Flap coin is a vital addition to this financial system that is entirely decentralized and highly community-driven. It empowers the owner sense of ownership with unrestricted growth, global adoption and freedom from the reigns of traditional financial system.

INVESTMENT RISKS:

Safety and security are the major threats that come to the minds of the people intending to own crypto coins. We ensure the security and safety of each and every individual or institutional investor who own Flap Coin. It is developed using blockchain technology and deployed on Binance Smart Chain (BSC) which is secured through the proof-of-stake consensus mechanism.

Core Features and Benefits of Flap Coin

Instant and Affordable Payments Worldwide

Since Flap Coin neither comes under the purview of banking system nor is issued by the central authority, it becomes a reliable form of payment worldwide in real-time. You can make a payment using Flap Coin (subject to the acceptance of the receiver) at a very cheap transaction cost without any due verification from the central authorities, banks and financial institutions. The absence of intermediaries makes it the cheapest form of digital payment globally.

Alternative Banking

The ownership of Flap Coin is comprehensively based on a decentralized system which means it is completely out of the traditional banking system. Hence, it provides a reliable alternative banking that is entirely governed by the owner of the coin itself. In most emerging markets, any individual can use their mobile phone to make payments, buy digital assets and sell coins at will from any location at any time.

Medium of Exchange

Flap coin can potentially be utilized as peer-to-peer payment between individuals or owners just like cash in the digital realm. The owner can do the digital transaction at a very minimal transaction cost. The settlement of payment transpires instantly regardless of the location of the participants. Hence, Flap Coin can be considered a useful and effective source of remittances worldwide in a real-time manner. The low transaction fees and quick settlement make it an exciting choice of payment for various trades and transactions digitally to a great level.

Long-time storage value

Since the supply and mining of Flap Coin are limited and finite, it automatically enhances its store value for a long time. The fixed number of circulation also keeps the inflation low, which provides a derived assurance in the long run. Hence, whether you are a retail buyer or an institutional investor, the storage of flap coins for the long-lasting period can incur the valuation to a great level.

Excellent Investment Prospects

Flap Coin provides a great prospect for investment. Those who are keen investors in cryptocurrencies and other digital assets will find it a great option to use their liquidity to buy Flap Coin. The decentralized, community-driven approach and finite level of supply enable investors to put their hard-earned money for a safe and secure investment.
